This is a fancy keystroke recorder that allows you to record your keystrokes in any application using mouse click commands. I have found this great to help you remember complex keys and mouse clicks as a backup when you need it. It is designed to make it easier to press and type on your computer. I have also tried to make it as easy as possible to setup. What is New in This Release: A total of 6 new categories have been added A lot of bugs were fixed A new task bar has been added. Screenshots: Here is a list of what the default categories contain: Library Record Macro Recorder Keystrokes Active Tray Description Dock Keymacro has been redesigned with your input in mind. It has been simplified to make it easier for you to use. The only reason for having multiple windows is for viewing options that may not be visible in the main window. There are many new options available with this new version of Keymacro. There is a new option to enable the command console. Features: Record Mouse Click Commands. Many configurable hotkeys. Set Hotkeys as Shortcuts Compatible with Windows 7 and Windows 8 Ability to set custom keymapping for buttons and custom command macros for anything you can think of. Keymacro will record mouse click commands as well as hotkey commands. That is, if you press Ctrl+Alt+W, it will record the command as Ctrl+Alt+W or Command+Alt+W. You can easily change these commands via the Settings window. Keymacro can be set to record one keystroke as a "command" for a mouse click. Press Ctrl+Alt+W and a mouse click command will be recorded as Ctrl+Alt+W or Command+Alt+W. You can then assign hotkey combinations to the commands. The "Mouse Click Commands" have the ability to be recorded in 1, 2, or 3 different ways. There is a button for recording a click, there is also a hotkey command that will record a click command. Finally, there is also a special button for recording a hotkey command (no mouse click). When recording a hotkey, a mouse click is optional. The "Macro Text" allows you to enter the text you
