That means that when it comes to how different races die of cancer, black lives matter, or black deaths matter. And when it comes to cancer, black lives and deaths matter a whole lot more than black patients' care. The different races experience the disease at different rates. According to a U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) study in 2015, black people were nearly twice as likely as white people to die of 3e33713323
