In France, up to 2012, no evidence of heparin-induced thrombocytopenia (HIT) was notified in the national pharmacovigilance database, in comparison with data from European countries. However, the objective of this study was to assess the validity of this assertion. All spontaneous notifications of HIT reported by French pharmacists from 2005 to 2012 were reported to the national pharmacovigilance database, using the form CL01A. These notifications were compared with the data sent to the European Pharmacovigilance Risk Assessment Committee (PRAC). The proportion of notifications that were classified as probable HIT was analysed over the years and correlated with the number of heparin-treated patients reported by the French national hospital discharge databases. During 2005-2012, no official notification of HIT was reported by French pharmacists. However, a total of 1403 notifications were sent to the national pharmacovigilance database. Among these notifications, 134 (9.4%) reported that the patient was treated with a non-heparin anticoagulant, and 113 were classified as probable HIT (6.1% of all notifications of non-HIT adverse drug reactions and 2.2% of all notifications of thrombocytopenia) corresponding to 1069 patients with a median age of 70 years. Of these patients, 69 were receiving non-heparin anticoagulants. The proportion of notifications classified as probable HIT and reporting heparin treatment remained stable over the 12 years. However, an annual increase in notifications of non-HIT adverse drug

References Category:Textbooks by topicQ: Condition type in hspec I'm trying to use HSpec. I have a condition that switches to my first test when it passes and switches to my second test when it fails. However, I want to switch to my first test without having to write an explicit fail. How do I specify a default when using a condition statement? describe 'doSomething(100, 30)' do it'returns the right value' do expect(doSomething(100, 30)).to eql(420) end if #need to check for this first... it 'does not return the right value' do expect(doSomething(100, 30)).to eql(0) end else it'returns the right value' do expect(doSomething(100, 30)).to eql(420) end end end A: One way to do that is to create an if/else condition inside the expect as : if true expect(doSomething(100, 30)).to eql(420) else expect(doSomething(100, 30)).to eql(0) end Or just write it without the if/else as : expect(doSomething(100, 30)).to eql(420) Q: How to append new data to dataset, Programmatically? public void AppendData(DataSet ds) { DataTable dt = new DataTable(); ds.Tables.Add(dt); } This way to append data into the dataTable is not working for me. A: var dt = new DataTable(); ds.Tables.Add(dt); A: It should be: public void AppendData(DataSet ds) { 570a42141b
